We knew it was coming—Mussolini blames depression and reductions of wages in Italy on the United States. America is the universal "goat" for all the sins and evils which afflict mankind.

Musolini declares that Italian "hard times" are due to the Wall street market crash following an era of inflation and speculation which, he says, was responsible for the supposed prosperity of the United States. The fact that the United States produces one third of all the world produces, had nothing to do with it. Our modern machinery equipment and industrial methods did not contribute to Uncle Sam's prosperity. Our high standards of wages and living had nothing to do with it. Our prosperity was due, he declares, to the fact that we made our money by speculation—in other words made it all off one another. It was through Wall street plunging in stocks that Americans acquired twenty-five million motor cars. The workers in our factories spent their idle hours watching the ticker. They took their profits and bought bath-tubs, radios and automobiles!

Mussolini also punctures the idea that mass production is a blessing rather than a curse, because the machine's power of increased consumption is unlimited, while the individual's power of increased consumption is limited. The Duce would hardly claim that the capacity of mankind to consume has yet been reached. It has been demonstrated that the consuming power of 120,000,000 Americans is equal to that of 500,000,000 Europeans or a billion Asiaties. It would seem that Europe has some distance to go before it needs to dread the increase of consuming power.

Apart from such an abnormal lapse of consuming power as we are now experiencing, there would seem to be no danger in increased production. Mass production, it may be observed, does not apply to more than a fraction of goods and services. The adjustment of supply to demand constitutes a difficult problem, but it doubtless can be effected. One remedy is shortened hours in highly mechanized industries. Another is the development of new articles of utility or beauty. When it is realized that Americans have four times the purchasing power of Europeans per capita, it will be understood that as yet the world stands in far more danger from under consumption than from overproduction.

If that fear which is responsible for most of the let-up in consumer demand in this country were removed from the hearts of our people no serious problem of overproduction would be confronted here, apart from whatever danger might arise from that slackened consumption in the rest of the world which woud make our market the dumping ground for cheap-abor producers the word over.

It is all right for Mussolini to blame his country's troubles on the United States if it will provide him with an alibi. In doing so he is only following the example of all political alibi-seekers in Europe and their echoes in this country. But thoughtful Americans believe that most of their troubles are due to the hang-over from the European war and the attempt to integrate the American with the European economic system since the war.

That's all.

SMASHUP WRECKS CAR DRIVEN BY S. MAJOR KING

At about 9 o'clock Friday morning S. M. King, salesman for a Watsonville plumbing and heating supply house, enroute to San Francisco from Campbell where he and Mrs. King had visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith, over the holidays, suffered severe hand injuries, bruises and a badly wrenched hip when his car was struck at the intersection of Campbell and Union avenues by a coupe driven by L. Woodard of Union district. Mr. King's car rolled over two times, hopelessly smashing the body of the machine. Mr. Woodard's car escaped with minor damage.

Karl Bohnett, state traffic officer in this district, investigated the accident, but was noncommittal in placing the blame. Mr. Woodard is reported to have figured in several other accidents.

LOCAL BALL TEAM TRIMS PIONEERS IN GOOD GAME SUN.

Campbell fans were treated to a real ball game on the local diamond Sunday when Orchard City batters overcame a 6-6 tie in the tenth frame, the game closing 8-6 with the Pioneers on the short end of the score.

Cunningham allowed 16 hits, but teamwork on the part of the field held Campbell down considerably. Brayevich socked out what looked like a homer, but was tagged at the plate. Athenour scored three out of five hits and Giandrea took two doubles. Both teams were on their toes and played baseball as it should be played. The game was marred by no unpleasantness.

BANANA REPUBLICS TOPIC AT CLUB MEET

The first post-holiday gathering of the Country Woman's club was held Monday afternoon, the program being in charge of Mesdames Charlotte W. Sutter, Ira Beal and Ray Wood.

Bright winter berries and greenery, so popular and effective for decorations thru the winter months, were attractively placed about the room.

A short business session was presided over by the president, Mrs. M. E. Purmort and then the "Toreador" song from Carmen was was played on the victrola which was a gift to the community room last spring of Mrs. Geo. E. Hyde. Later the record "Caprice Espanol, was also enjoyed.

Mrs. Beal gave a very short geographical introduction of the subject, "Central America." She then read an interesting paper on "Panama, Past and Present," including under that heading a most interesting letter written by Miss Flora eBal who made the trip on a large freighter that stopped at the ports of Salvador, Panama and Colon. She also read a few pages from Frederick Haskins', "The Panama Canal"

Mrs. Wood continued the study with an equally interesting account of the history and conditons of Nicaragua, showing the results of continuous revolutions. Mention was made of the right of the United States to construct a second water route to traverse that country, utilizing Lake Nicaragua and other bodies of water.

Honduras was the country chosen by Mrs. Sutter for her paper. This state is the most backward of all the Central American group due chiefly to its great lack of transportation facilities, there being less than 200 miles of railroad in the entire country. If these nations ever arrive at a stable and satisfactory government which will induce investors to develop the rich resources they all have the possibilities of growth and wealth.

AMERICAN TRUST CO. STATEMENT SHOWS BIG GAIN

American Trust company statement of condition as of Dec. 31, 1930, shows an increase in deposits and a substantial gain in undivided profits. Cash and bonds, aggregating in excess of $116,000,000 are equal to approximately 50 per cent of total deposits, reflecting a condition of high liquidity and conservative management.

Deposits of thte bank total $245,070,942, an increase of $2,400,00 over the Sept. 24 statement.

After setting up liberal reserves the bank increased its undivided profit account $650,000 during 1930, the total at the end of the year being $2,526,370. Of this gain $250,000 was made during the first half of the year and $400,000 during the last six months.

Loans and discounts of the bank are down approximatey $19,000,000 from a year ago, reflecting the general decline in commercial demand for funds. The total at the end of 1930 stood at $147,110,583.

DEATH OF MRS. J. R. HINDE AT HOME OF DAUGHTER IN GA.

SENIOR PLAY WILL ENTERTAIN LOCAL FOLKS JANUARY 16

The senior play of the Campbell Union High school will present, Friday evening, Jan. 16, the annual senior class play. The offering this year is entitled "Adam and Eva" and is being prepared under the supervision of Miss Jean McKinley, aided by N. O. Best.

The comedy, which will appear on the stage of the grammar school auditorium, starting promptly at 8 o'clock is reported to be riotously funny, with difficult parts adequately filled by local students. Taking part in the play are Dan Furtado as James King, a rich man; Della Del Grande as Corinthia, his parlor maid; Raymond De Selle as Clinton DeWitt, his son-in-law; Helen Gartner as Julia De Witt, his eldest daughter; Lola Rhoten as Eva King, his younger daughter; Dorothy Todd as Aunt Abby Rocker, his sister-in-law; Clyde Hughes as Dr. Jack Delamater, his neighbor; Mark Pasquin as Horace Pilgrim, his uncle; Harold Freitas as Adam Smith, his business manager; Barton Wood as Lord Andrew, his would-be son-in law.

Sale of tickets has been under way for several days, and students are optimistic of a full house. The public is responding generously, because the local high school has the reputation of turning out bang-up entertainments. Secure your tickets at the earliest opportunity.

TWO DEPARTMENTS TURN OUT FOR FIRE AT 12:30 LAST NIGHT

The Campbell and Burbank fire departments answered the summons last night at 12:30 o'clock when the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Deen on Winchester road was destroyed by fire.

This house stood in the Hedegard sub-division and was the original home site. The Deen family had just moved from San Francisco three months ago, and settled there. The fire was believed to have been caused by defective wiring in the attic.

Mr. and Mrs. Deen barely escaped the burning building with their lives, saving nothing but their night attire. The house was insured, but the insurance of the contents will cover only half the value.

A talk with Mr. Hedegard revealed that he will build on the site a modern house, completing a row of beautiful homes, another addition to attract people to this community.

Mrs. S. N. Hedegard will preside over the first meeting of the grammar school P.T.A for 1931 this afternoon. Music and a program will be furnished by the pupils of Miss Ruth Stuart and Mrs. Ralph Saunders Saunders of Willow Glen will speak on "Parental Education."

NOTED SPEAKERS TO GRACE C. OF C. BANQUET FRIDAY

All arrangements have been completed for the local Chamber of Commerce annual banquet which will be held in the cafeteria of the grammar school this Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The time has been changed from 8 o'clock, so don't forget—half past six is the time.

The principal speakers of the evening will be R. W. Pedersen, president of the Sunnyvale Chamber of Commerce; J. W. Thomas, chief aerographer of the United States navy; Mrs. J. W. Knowles, representing the high school P. T. A., W. R. Coupland who will speak for the Odd Fellows; Rev. A. S. Buell, representing the Kiwanis club and church activities; Dr. W. I. Merrill, the Boy Scouts and Campfire Girls; D. H. Cramer, who will speak in behalf of the local schools, and Miss Annie Schulte will represent the Country Woman's club.

Stephen Merrill, national radio audition finalist, will sing as a special feature of the entertainment, having gained permission to sing for this occasion. A. A. Thielke will be on hand with his excellent high school orchestra.

Supervisor Joe McKinnon was to have spoken but has asked to be excused on account of the death of his mother.

The womens auxiliary to the Orchard City Grange will prepare the banquet and the Campfire Girls will serve, under the supervision of Mrs. Louis Shelley. The girls will also sing the invocation.

The Chamber of Commerce has worked hard to make the banquet a success and asks everyone to get behind them and co-operate with them to put this community on the map.

THE SPORT FORUM

By DICK LYNDEN

That rosy vision of western supremacy on the gridiron, a rather common football phantasy out here, busted abruptly and definitely last Saturday as the Alabama Tide billowed over Washington's Cougars to drown them in a deluge of leather raindrops before 60,000 amazed spectators. It was the 16th annual tournament of roses' game played in the Pasadena stadium.

The 24-0 victory, an unapproached record in the history of the classic, left the west considerable food for reflection. In recent years, and more especially since Stanford overwhelmed the Army in 1928, there has been a prevelant self-complacency in this section regarding the neighborhood football activities, which has, at times, developed into nothing short of foppery. The absurd theory that western teams grow more rough, tough and nasty boys than any other section, may it be suggested, should promptly be dismissed as an unprofitable and sadly disillusioning notion. The Alabama and Notre Dame debacles ought to prove something like that.

The first thing that pops into a normal, football-given skull is a comparison of Alabama with Notre Dame. Grantland Rice, America's leading sportsman, ventures just such a comparison in the following paragraph:

"Just what would have happened if Alabama and Notre Dame had met can remain as one of those arguments never to be settled. Alabama had the stronger line, Notre Dame the stronger backfield. And there are often occasions when the stronger line can nullify the better backfield. There are often occasions when it can't if the difference isn't large."

Which is about as close as anyone can come on such specuation.

Keene Fitzpatrick, famous Princeton trainer, offered a most interesting discourse on legs not many days ago. It is his belief that the human leg is losing its former speed and power through disuse. He points out the dearth of good distance runners and the increasing total of leg injuries during a football season as substantiation of this tenet. "Gene Tunney," he continues, "spent years building up his legs; so did Paavo Nurmi, Ty Cobb, Hans Wagner, and a host of old-time football players." Negect of the peda extremities has no doubt affected the whole sporting field.

The appointment of Robert Edgren, nationaly known amateur athlete and sport scribe, to the position of chairman of the state athletic commission has been received with general approval thruout the state. Edgren, who has boxed with Fitzsimmons, Corbett and Jeffries, and who holds twenty amateur records in various sports, should be the ideal person to Norris and Other Radical Republicans Reject Third Party Suggestions—Wickersham Report Sure to Start Fight in Congress.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Dr. Dewey

DEMOCRATS, no doubt, are highly edified by the way in which the row within the Republican party is going, the radicals and regulars taking turns in swatting one another. But there seems small prospect that the insurgents will be led into accepting the suggestion of Dr. John Dewey, head of the League for Independent Action, that they form a third party with Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska as their leader and potential candidate for the Presidency. Norris, Borah and the rest of them are convinced that the formation of another party, under present electoral provisions, would be futile, and have so informed Doctor Dewey. Of course there remained Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania as a possible banner bearer of a third party in 1932, but undoubtedly he, like the other radical Republicans, knows on which side his bread is buttered.

Responding to a question, Norris said if the Democratic party should nominate a real progressive in 1932 many of the western Republican independents would support him.

"It is an open secret that the power interests are trying to nominate a Democrat who will be satisfactory to them," he stated. "Known emissaries of the power trust are busy now trying to line up the Democratic party for Owen D. Young. The trouble is that under our present system the people have to vote for one man or the other. Often it is a case of voting for the lesser of two evils. The people don't really select our Presidents. What we need is a system by which the rank and file can get control of a party any time they have a mind to."

There were various interesting developments in the quarrel between Norris and Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee. Treasurer Joseph R. Nutt of the committee demanded from Senator Nye an apology for his assertion that the national committee account used by Lucas was a "slush fund," and the North Dakotan, who was in Florida inspecting the Everglades as a possible site for a national park, admitted grudgingly that "further investigation may reveal that the $40,000 was not a slush fund." But both he and Senator Walsh, also at Miami Beach, had more hard things to say about the Lucas campaign to defeat Norris, and Nutt kept things going by accusing Nye of being a headline hunter. Representative Will R. Wood of Indiana took a hand in the row by the published assertion that Norris is not a Republican, but a demagogue, and that he is now assuming to be a dictator to the Democratic party.

G. W. Wickersham

WITH the news that the report of the Wickersham commission would be given to President Hoover on January 5 and undoubtedly transmitted by him to congress immediately thereafter, it became evident that there was going to be a great deal of fighting over the prohibition question during the remainder of the short session. There was nothing authoritative concerning the contents of the Wickersham report, the members of the commission being evidently determined to keep it secret until it reached the White House. But whatever its findings, the battle seemed certain to open soon.

Wet members of the lower house were said to have determined to force a roll call on some prohibition items in the Department of Justice appropriation bill which is to be reported to the house about January 13; and in the senate both wets and drys are getting their ammunition ready.

If the report contains specific recommendations for legislation changing the prohibition law in a vital way, observers in the National Capital think this might be the factor that would make necessary the calling of a special session of the new congress in the spring. The administration leaders are determined this shall not happen if they can prevent it. Senator Watson of Indiana, majority leader, said:

"It is the consensus of most members of congress, and of the entire American business world, as far as is ascertainable, that an extra session is to be avoided except in case of an extreme emergency. I do not believe that this emergency will occur if members will forego speeches on extraneous matters and confine debate to the immediate problems confronting them."

On the other hand, Senator Borah of Idaho asserted the opponents of an extra session were trying to find patriotic excuses for going home or to Europe, and that there was much important legislation, aimed at helping business, that demanded immediate enactment. The program on which the radical Republicans want action includes such controversial measures as the debenture plan for farm relief, Muscle Shoals and power, further relief measures including the Wagner unemployment bills, regulation of bus traffic, and increase in the income tax rates in the upper brackets.

QUICK relief for the drought sufferers is a certainty. The subcommittee of the house committee on appropriations approved of an appropriation of $45,000,000 for this loan, the full amount authorized in the legislation already enacted, and the full committee was prepared to recommend this to congress immediately after the session was resumed. It was expected to be put through in both houses as a deficiency measure within a few days.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde appeared before the subcommittee to support the appropriation, although he reiterated his belief that $25,000,000 would be sufficient to care for the drought area. He asserted that he had no intention of approving any loans for human food, although the language of the authorization was construed during the congressional debates as being made broad enough to include such loans in cases of emergency. Mr. Hyde said the loans would be available for distribution within a week after the money is appropriated.

Hamilton Fish, Jr.

REPRESENTATIVE Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, in whose district West Point is situated, is urging the early passage of his bill appropriating $1,500,000 for the purchase of 15,000 acres additional for the Military academy. Though the academy is considered by many the greatest military school in the world, high officers of army have asserted that it is greatly handicapped by insufficient ground, meager water supply and lack of facilities for training the cadets.

Gen. John J. Pershing has indorsed the move to acquire 15,000 acres of land adjacent to the academy. He said:

"If West Point is to continue to fulfill its mission of preparing its graduates for emergencies, greater facilities for the special training required must be provided."

He urged that the government immediately acquire the land as recommended by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the academy.

AT THE instigation of President Hoover, the executives of the chief eastern railroads got together and rearranged for consolidation into four major systems, the focal points of which are the Pennsylvania, the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Van Sweringen lines. Mr. Hoover announced that he gave his endorsement to the plan as a means of aiding business recovery and improving railroad service. If certain minor details are agreed upon and the scheme is approved by the Interstate Commerce commission, the merger may go through. However, opposition in congress developed at once, among the objectors being Senators Couzens and Wheeler, both members of the senate committee on interstate commerce.

It is understood the executives agreed to allot the Reading and Jersey Central lines to the Baltimore & Ohio, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western to the New York Central, and the Lehigh Valley to the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickle Plate lines into Buffalo and a cash consideration.

JUDGE DAVID JENKINS of Youngstown, Ohio, put an end to proposed plans for the million-dollar merger of the Bethlehem Steel corporation and the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company when he granted to minority stockholders a permanent injunction restraining the combination. His decision was the climax of a bitter legal struggle that had been going on for six months and was a victory for Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier, who headed the minority stockholders of the Sheet and Tube company and carried the battle to court with charges of fraud.

Senator Keyes

IN ORDER to round out the federal building program in Washington, according to Senator Henry W. Keyes of New Hampshire, the property adjacent to the Capitol grounds now occupied by the Methodist building is necessary and may be purchased under condemnation by the government. Keyes is chairman of the senate committee, so he speaks by the card.

The Methodist building, sometimes called the Methodist "vatican," is located just east of the Capitol, across the street from the new Supreme court building, now under construction, and around the corner from the senate building.

Senator Keyes said the ground occupied by the Methodist building could be used partly for open park space and partly for some government building. Although no bill is pending in congress providing for its acquirement, Senator Keyes intimated that such legislation was in prospect.

The Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, which occupies the structure, recently was refused permission to build an annex to it by the District of Columbia zoning authorities. This ruling, however, did not molest the present building, which would be demolished if the property was condemned and purchased.

Dr. Millikan

SCIENTISTS from all parts of the United States and Canada spent the week in Cleveland, Ohio, attending the sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and Affiliated Societies. They numbered more than five thousand and they read and listened to papers relating the latest researches into the secrets of the universe. The retiring presidential address was delivered by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winner and physics, his topic being "Atomic Disintegration and Atomic Synthesis." He took issue with Sir James Jeans and others as to the "heat death" of the universe, the debated second law of dynamics, and from his deep study of the nature of cosmic rays ventured the suggestion that there is as much reason to think the universe is constantly being rebuilt as that it is running down and doomed to extinction in some millions of years.

Doctor Millikan was presented by the new president, Thomas H. Morgan of the California Institute of Technology, after welcoming speeches by Dr. Robert E. Vinson, president of Western Reserve university, where many of the meetings were held, and Dr. William E. Wickenden, president of the Case School of Applied Science.

ONE of the features of New Year's day was the inauguration of Franklin Roosevelt as governor of New York for his second term. At 11:15 the governor started from the executive mansion in Albany for the state capitol, accompanied by his military staff; Maj. Gen. William N. Haskell, commanding officer of the New York National Guard; Rear Admiral William B. Franklin, commander of the naval militia, together with Troop B of the One Hundred and First cavalry. The ceremony took place at noon, Secretary of State Flynn administering the oath to Governor Roosevelt.

NEW YEAR'S day in the White House was the occasion for the annual reception that is traditional. President and Mrs. Hoover went to the Blue room at eleven o'clock in the morning and there greeted the members of the cabinet, justices of the Supreme court, army and navy officials and members of congress and of the diplomatic corps. At one o'clock the doors were thrown open and the general public was admitted. For hours the callers passed through the room, each one shaking hands with Mr. and Mrs. Hoover.

DEATH of Representative David J. O'Connell of Brooklyn reduced the number of Democrats elected to the next house to 214. He had served in congress continuously since 1919 with the exception of one term.

Japan lost one of its ablest diplomats in the death of Marquis Kinichi Komura, vice minister of overseas affairs. He leaves no heirs to his title, which is one of the highest in Japan.

Walter L. Cohen, negro political leader who had served as controller of customs for the New Orleans district during the last seven years, died at the age of seventy.

Prince Louis

EUROPE'S latest dictatorship has been established in the little principality of Monaco by its ruler, Prince Louis II, and his people do not take it with good grace. Twice within a week there were political and popular demonstrations against the prince, partly because he had been spending most of his time living a gay life in Paris, and partly because of the decrease in the revenues from the Casino in Monte Carlo—the only revenues of the state. The first disorders were timed for the arrival of Louis from France, and he promptly called out his army of about one hundred men and suppressed them. But when he followed up this action by dissolving both legislative bodies, assuming a dictatorship abrogating the rights of franchise and elective representation granted the citizens 20 years ago the indignant people again broke loose with mass meetings and parades of protest.

Again Louis mobilized his army, but it was generally believed that he was relying not on his own military strength but on assurance of support from the French foreign office. Since 1911 France has maintained a kind of suzerainty over Monaco, and the prince was probably acting on French advice. There are plenty of French troops in the neighborhood if he should need their aid.

KIWANIS NOTES
By Heck

Lieut.-Gov. Leon Reynolds of Palo Alto was an official visitor at Kiwanis today and delivered his greetings along with some very interesting ideas that he hopes to promote during the year. He has already visited a majority of his district clubs.

The speaker of the day was our genial globetrotting guardian of Stephen Merrill, popularly known in these precincts as 'Doc.'

He gave a very instructive travelogue of his visit east to Washington and New York, where Stephen made his enviable record.

Washington, soon to be the most beautiful city in the world, is in the throes of re-birth, undergoing the wrecking of the old buildings and construction of new department offices. While there Doc was graciously entertained and shown about the city by the Hon. Arthur Free, who sure Knows how. He stated that Mr. Free is also a very energetic worker with President Hoover and the closest harmony exists between them.

The entertainment for the Atwater-Kent contestants had been provided to the minutest detail by Mr. Kent. Several days were spent in New York doing the town before their homeward trip.

The strings have all been set for the County Consolidated meeting next week. This meeting will hear speakers brought by the visiting organization.

Your voice reaches other cities with speed and clarity.

TODAY the average inter-city connection is made in less than 2 minutes—often in a few seconds. More than 95% of inter-city connections are now completed while the calling person is at the telephone.

Naturally it takes more fuel to heat your home in JANUARY

—this is the coldest month

Naturally, it takes more fuel to heat your home in January. For that is the coldest month of the year.

So it doesn't matter what fuel you may be using or whether you pay for it monthly or at the beginning of the heating season, facts prove that during January you must have more heat.

With gas heating, you pay for the fuel each month after using it. Therefore, the logical way to look at the cost of gas heating is the average monthly cost or the total yearly cost.

Because we have no way of separating the gas you use for heating from that used for cooking and water heating, all gas consumed is shown on the same monthly bill. However, every one knows from experience during months when no gas is used for heating about what the bill for cooking and water heating will run. We suggest that you deduct the cost of gas for cooking and water heating when estimating the average net monthly or yearly cost of gas for house heating.

If the cost of gas is figured in this manner, it will be found that warmth and comfort with gas heating equipment is most economical. Furthermore, gas is the cleanest and safest fuel you can use.

Chinese Breeders Make Varieties of Goldfish

"Goldfish made their first appearance in Europe in the year 1691, having been imported from St. Helena," writes Dr. Berthold Laufer, in the Field Museum News. "They had come to St. Helena from Bavaria, and Chinese settlers who emigrated to Java had brought them along as a reminder of their home country.

"Charles Darwin believed that goldfish had been kept in confinement in China from an ancient period. The belief is well founded and is strongly supported by Chinese records. The goldfish is a native of China and still is to be found in a wild state in rivers there. It has been brought by the Chinese not only into a complete state of domestication, but also numerous varieties and the many fantastic and grotesque monstrosities with protruding eyes or with three and four lobed tails are the products of Chinese effort. These varieties were produced, not by chance, but by a studied and conscientious method of interbreeding."

"Burning Spring" Owned by George Washington

Curiosity may have killed a cat, but it also made George Washington one of the first investors in natural gas property.

In 1775 he visited a tract near Charleston, W. Va., where a strange "burning spring"—flames of escaping gas, probably ignited by a water-seeker who came at night with a lantern—attracted his attention. Although the father of our country could not have known it, the property he bought was in the heart of a great natural gas field. He presented his property to the nation as a national park.

The first well in this field, however, was not discovered until the early 1800s when two brothers, David and Joseph Ruffner, drilled a 58-foot shaft for salt in the great Kanawha valley of east Virginia, and opened up a gas well.

Pays to Enter Own Door

How would you like to have to pay a fee for entering your own front door? The vicar of St. Bride's, Fleet street, has to do this. Bridewell place, at the back of the church where the vicarage is situated, was built on land belonging to the Bridewell foundation, and the old dividing wall ran along the lines of the present vicarage railings. The result is that there is no free right of way into the house, and the vicar has to pay a toll of guinea (about $5) a year. Bridewell has had an interesting history. Formerly a palace, it became in turn a hospital, a "house of occupations," a workhouse, and a prison. It ceased to be a prison in 1864, when Holloway jail took its place, but there still is a cell for apprentices who may be committed there by the city's chamberlain. It never is used.—London Tit-Bits.

Stanford's basketball squad swung into a vigorous preseason campaign last week and contrived to win one out of three games played. Against the Y. M. I. Stanford looked pitiful, and dropped a close decision despite the worthy efforts of Vance Fawcett. On Friday, the Cardinals engaged St. Mary's quintet, and paraded to an easy victory, with Phil Moffat, playing his first regular forward berth, stealing individual honors. The following night St. Ignatius, or rather, San Francisco U., invaded the Stanford pavillion and won out in an extra period, Phil Moffat scintillating again.
